

SAMPLE: YOUR TITLE HERE
EPISODE #101: "Script Services"

START	SPEAKER	DIALOGUE
01:06:18:00	YOU	Hey, Laura, have you heard of an annotated dialogue list? (Hey: casual greeting)
01:06:19:10	LAURA	Heard of 'em? They are fan-freakin'-tastic! ('em: them) (fan-freakin' -tastic: humorous way of saying "fantastic," with the interjection "freakin'" inserted in the middle of the word for emphasis) (fantastic/freakin': alliteration)
01:06:26:04	YOU	Hmmm, I don't get it. What's the big deal? What is the purpose of language annotations? (Hmmm: noise indicating thought) (don't: do not) (What's: what is) (big deal: something very important or significant)
01:06:30:21	LAURA	Translation can be super hard, especially when people talk all crazy and use tons of slang or colloquialisms. Language annotations also make it easier to translate jokes and puns! And you want to make sure your subtitles are on point, doncha? (super: used here to mean "very") (all crazy: slang expression meaning "in an unusual way") (tons: a lot) (on point: slang expression meaning "perfect") (doncha: a casual compound word, meaning "don't you")
01:06:36:12	YOU	Oh, I get it. You define all non-standard English, contractions, slang, and figures of speech so translators can grasp the tone of someone's speech and translate it accordingly! (Oh: indicating realization) (get it: understand)
01:06:39:01	LAURA	Looks like I spilled the beans! ("spilled the beans": expression meaning "revealed a secret")
01:06:41:04	YOU	Does Talking Type Captions do annotated dialogue lists?
01:06:43:01	LAURA	You can bet your bottom dollar! And, it won't cost you an arm and a leg! (bet your bottom dollar: expression meaning "bet everything") (won't: will not) (cost you an arm and a leg: expression meaning "be very expensive")
01:06:45:20	YOU	Um, Laura? Do you always need to be annotated so thoroughly? (Um: indicating hesitation)
01:06:47:10	LAURA	Heh. Overkill, huh? All right, I'll cut it out. Whoops! Oh no! I CAN'T STOP! (Heh: indicating sheepishness) (Overkill: to do something excessively) (huh?: indicating a question) (cut it out: cease) (Whoops!: interjection, indicating a mistake) (Oh no!: expression indicating distress) (can't: cannot)